

CLELL TATUM

Signed By Major League.

W. Clell Tatum, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tatum of this county, has signed a contract with the Louisville Base Ball Club, as pitcher, and will go South on the Colonels' spring training trip in the early spring of 1920.

Tatum is the best pitcher, by far, that this county has ever turned out and his "rooter" friends are congratulating him upon his worthy promotion, knowing that he will be heard from later and will add strength to any team with which he is associated.

His record with the Paint Lick team has been wonderful, playing sixteen games with the crack teams of the surrounding counties, winning fifteen of them and made a "no hit" game with the combined strength of Nicholasville and Lexington teams.

Success to you Mr. Tatum. Your friends will watch your progress with much interest and trust you may be able to win the pennant with your colleagues.

HORSE THIEF

CAUGHT.

Horse and Buggy Stolen From Sam Morris Recovered.

The horse and buggy that was stolen from the streets of Lancaster on the night of October 10th, and belonging to Sam Morris, was recovered near Somerset this week and the thief has been caught, so a message from that place stated last Monday morning.

The young man that appropriated the horse and buggy and who is now under arrest at Somerset, is one Bradley Taylor, who has worked for several parties around and near town for the past two months, since his discharge from the United States army.

The horse and buggy and another horse was purchased from Taylor by Mr. Honas Halcumb, who owns a livery stable at Somerset and also a farm about five miles from Palaski's capitol. This purchase was made on October 13th, just two days after the Morris outfit disappeared from Lancaster.

Taylor had the nerve however, to return to the Halcumb farm last Friday night and is said to have taken the horse from the field of Mr. Halcumb and disappeared. Halcumb set out in hot pursuit to catch Taylor whom he believed was the guilty party, and knowing that Taylor had lived in Lancaster at one time came here to make inquiries last Sunday, and found out to his sorrow that all the property he had bought from Taylor had been stolen. While here he received a message from Somerset that such a party was seen near Whitley City Sunday afternoon that filled the description of Taylor. A message from there Monday morning stated that the guilty party was under arrest.

EVERYBODY

Is Joining the Red Cross

The workers find Patriotic Garrard County Citizens eager to renew membership for 1920 because the opportunity to save life is still open. They are considering the following facts:

One of every five babies dies before it is one year old.

One of every ten men and women dies of tuberculosis in the prime of life.

In Central Europe there are 7,000,000 starving children. Petrograd alone has 75,000 homeless little ones, Siberia, 20,000.

A life is just as precious in a peaceful world or community as on the battlefield.

Our soldier boys in hospitals, who are legless, armless or sightless, who are slowly coming back from shell shock; who are fighting away death hour by hour, all need Red Cross service.

Grateful that so many of our boys have come back. Remembering one perhaps, who would have them join.

Justly proud of the work done by this American institution.

Let us note one case that has been taken care of by the Garrard County Chapter through its Community Nurse, Miss Margaret Frost, who was called by the family physician. A dear little girl just recovering from typhoid fever, taken to a Lexington hospital, with consent of parents, where an operation was performed which saved her from a life of total blindness. And while there she developed pneumonia and so had to have a special nurse and private room the total cost was less than $140.

Surely it is a dollars worth of service to have a part in one and all these cases and others like them.

The Lake Division News, says:

A prominent physician in Carrollton (Ky) Chapter is championing the cause of a Red Cross public health nurse, for he says only eight per cent of sick people carry out a doctor's orders and that intelligent nursing is as important a factor in a patient's recovery as a doctor's treatment.

Mr. Henry P. Davison says:

"In a few years it will be as natural for people to renew their Red Cross memberships annually as it is for them to celebrate Christmas, for the Red Cross will be the supporting organization back of welfare and health agencies everywhere."

Jury Money.

The treasurer of the Jury Fund, Mr. Joe J. Walker, informs us that the jury money is now ready for distribution.

MORROW'S

MAJORITY LARGE.

May reach 30,000 when Count is Completed.

GARRARD GAVE HIM MAJORITY OF 288.

One of the largest votes ever polled in Garrard county, was polled last Tuesday, totalling, 3076. Governor Black receiving 1394 votes to Morrow's 1682, giving Morrow a Republican majority of 288.

With ten counties missing out of 120, unofficial returns give Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, a majority of 23,570 votes over Governor Black, Democrat, in the race for Governor of Kentucky.

Republican State headquarters predict that complete returns from the ten missing counties will give Morrow a total majority of 30,000 votes.

The vote on the Statewide prohibition amendment was available from but thirty counties, unofficial figures showing an adverse majority of 13,511. The vote, stood: Against, 25,340; for, 9,829. Twenty-two counties favored the amendment and eight were against it.

Jefferson county, which includes Louisville, cast 22,827 against the amendment and 7,541 for it.

The Senate fight over the League of Nations entered into the Kentucky contest to some extent, Governor Black declaring for the League in his campaign. The Republicans also will control the lower House of the Kentucky Legislature, while the Democrats will control the Senate.

The wet and dry issue also entered into the Kentucky contest, a Statewide prohibition amendment apparently having been beaten decisively.

Seven of the eleven Congressional Districts gave a Republican majority, Morrow carrying the 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 9th, 10th and 11th, the 1st, 2nd, 7th, and 8th going to Governor Black.

The vote on the Prohibition Amendment carried by a handsome majority in Garrard county 2,028 voting yes, while 706 voted no, leaving a majority of 1322.

The Stock law was carried in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, Magisterial Districts, but was lost in the 4th. This law we understand goes into effect in thirty days. The precincts which voted for this law by good majorities are the Lancaster, Bryantville, Buckeye and Walkers School House. Paint Lick and Union being in the 4th, district lost by 13 votes, Paint Lick giving a majority of 25 in its favor, while Union voted it down by a majority of 38 votes.

The present City Council was re-elected as it had no opposition and the race in this election was overshadowed by the state race.

A detail vote of the county will be found elsewhere in this issue.

The vote in Lincoln county was too close to be comfortable, but the splendid organization there succeeded in keeping her in the democratic column, Black receiving a small majority of seven votes; H. G. Skiles of Crab Orchard, candidate for Representative, elected by a majority of 47 votes and Circuit Clerk, Francis, Democrat, by a majority of 69. W. H. Shanks carried the county with a majority of 81.

Mr. Mack J. Morgan will represent Garrard county in the next Legislature. Mr. Morgan is a mighty good Republican, a fine clever fellow and we predict that he will take care of the peoples interests while at Frankfort next winter. He had no opposition and his nomination and election was handed him on a silver platter.

Rev. W. E. Sallee and Wife, Missionaries to Interior China To Be In Lancaster.

Rev. W. E. Sallee and wife are employed by the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention. They have done a great work for the cause of righteousness in Interior China and have met with many thrilling experiences. They are among our most efficient missionaries and have a message that will be helpful to everyone fortunate enough to hear them. Doubtless they will tell us much of the customs of the East and probably will show us a number of Chinese curios. Their addresses will be instructive and interesting from the beginning to the end.

Don't forget the date! TO-NIGHT at 7:30, at the Baptist Church. The entire public is cordially invited. C. D. Strother.

SWINEBROAD'S

SUCCESS.

Believes In Liberal Use Of Printer's Ink.

Many Sales Made.

The last half of October, Swinebroad, the Real Estate Man of Lancaster, was kept busy holding auction sales. On Oct. 15th, he sold for Mrs. George Backer, Mrs. Lynn Buxter and Mrs. William Geary, 865 acres of land in Wayne County, adjoining the town of Monticello, to various parties in building lots and farms for the aggregate sum of $94,504.83.

On the 18th, he sold for Milo Simpson a tract of 76 acres of unimproved land in Garrard County at an average of $214.00 per acre. On the 21st, he sold for R. W. Gwynn his farm of 335 acres in Mercer County to different parties at an average price of $280.00 per acre; a portion of the farm with the improvements, about 243 acres, averaged $301.00 per acre. On the 22nd, he held another sale in Garrard County and sold 110 acres for N. J. Gosney at $275.00 per acre. Again, on the 21th, he sold at auction for J. L. Butler his farm of 190 acres in Lincoln County at $150.00 per acre. On the 28th, he sold for Allen Edelen 170 acres of land in Mercer County, in two tracts of 85 acres each, at an average price of $162.50 per acre.

And on November 1st, for H. V. Bastin, a brick residence and about 4 acres of land just at the edge of the city limits of Lancaster in Garrard County, for $11,750.00, and on the same day two building lots for Roy Schooler at $1700.00 each. Total sales amounted to $312,482.00. All of these sales were very successful and again demonstrated the fact that when it comes to selling land Swinebroad is in a class by himself.

His experience in making subdivisions and knowing how to sell farms and his judgment of the value of land make his services much sought after and he is one of the few real estate men who have realized that the real estate business is a profession and must be conducted so as to secure and hold the confidence of those with whom he deals.

Swinebroad also believes in printer's ink and we judge that he spends more in advertising than any other real estate man in the business and is thereby able to give his clients the best of service.

Smith.

At an early hour Sunday morning the spirit of Mrs. Eliza Griffen Smith, wife of Mr. George Smith, Sr., passed into the Beyond. The community was saddened by the realization of the loss of one of its most estimable women.

Mrs. Smith was born in Somerset, Ky., November 1844. At the age of twenty-two she was married to Mr. George Smith, their union being blessed with six children, three of whom survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith came to make Lancaster their home about forty-five years ago and since that time have been highly esteemed citizens gathering about them as the years went by the endearing associations and appreciation of the towns people which always comes with long and worthy residence.

Mrs. Smith became a member of the Christian Church in her girlhood, and through life found comfort and enjoyment in the services of her church. All who came in contact with her socially, or in humble service, went away with a sense of her goodness, her generosity and sincerity. Her friendship lasted through all changes of fortune. Hers was a gentle, helpful, forbearing, sunny nature. Those who knew her in her home found there a little haven of kindly sociability sharpened by a lively interest in the outside world and a good will for all that discouraged unjust criticism and harmful gossip. The influence of so devoted a wife and mother will continue with her family and by precept will support them in bearing grief bravely. Especially does ones sympathy go out to the remaining members of the home fireside, the venerable husband and devoted daughter, Miss Eliza. Besides these Mrs. Smith is survived by her sons, Mr. George Smith, Jr., and Mr. James W. Smith, for whom much sympathy is felt in so irreparable a loss.

Financial Statement.

We are printing this week the financial statement of the Lancaster Graded School. It is well worth reading and can be found on the first page, second section.

EDWIN P. MORROW, Kentucky's Governor-Elect.

Edwin P. Morrow, was born in Casey county November 30, 1877. He was a son of the late Judge Thomas Z. Morrow and Jennie Bradley Morrow, his father having been one of the leaders of the Republican party in the State for many years. His mother was a sister of the late Senator W. O. Bradley, the first Republican Governor of the State and the second Republican United States Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. Morrow, known to his friends as "Ed", was educated in public schools and Williamsburg Academy. He was graduated from the Cincinnati Law School in 1902. He began the practice of his profession in Lexington. He was married in 1903 to Miss Katherine Waddell, daughter of the late O. H. Waddell, Somerset, after which he established a law office there.

His ability as an orator and lawyer attracted attention. He was United States District Attorney for the Eastern district of Kentucky under the administration of President Taft. Four years ago, A. O. Stanley defeated him in a race for Governor by but 471 votes. Unopposed, he was given the Republican nomination for Governor at the State Republican convention in Lexington last May.

Mr. Morrow and his twin brother volunteered for service during the Spanish-American war. Mr. Morrow, who was in the 4th Kentucky Regiment, was stricken ill and did not get to the front. His brother, who served in the old 1st Kentucky Regiment under the late Gen. John B. Castleman, continued in the army service and is now a Colonel in command of a regiment in Siberia. Mrs. Morrow accompanied her husband in his long and hard campaign throughout the State. They have a daughter and a son.

This insignia of honor is a beautifully lettered gold pin, with a blue enameled border, bearing the words "Distinguished Service, Treasury Department, Savings Division." The pin has the same intrinsic value as the Distinguished Service Award by Congress.

The honor of wearing one of these pins is confined to the postmaster who causes to be sold between November 3rd and December 6th the quota of Treasury Savings Certificates allotted to his office.

In cities with a post office of the first class the quota is $5000 of either the $100 or $1000 Certificates. Second class offices should sell $4000, third class $3000 and fourth class offices $2000.

The postmaster may also cause the honor to be shared by any attaché of his office, who will perform the service required. Thus the assistant, any carrier or clerk in an office of any class, who with his chief's consent, makes sales equalling the fixed quota for the office, may on the postmaster's request, receive one of the coveted trophies.

MANAGER McCRAY,

Assumes Full Charge of Tobacco Warehouse November 15th.

Urges Growers And Tenants To Stand By Home Institution.

This office is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. Roy McCray, who has been employed to assume full charge of the management of the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse and will begin his duties on November 15th. He gives some facts in his letter and we wish every tobacco grower in Garrard county to read it and to heed the splendid advice he gives them. His letter follows:

"North Middletown, K. Nov. 3, 1919, To the Farmers and Tobacco Growers of Garrard County:—

"Through the columns of the Central Record I wish to say a few words in regard to the tobacco situation in Garrard county and the great future that is now in prospect for the growers of the weed in this splendid community.

"I have lived on a farm all my life and the greater portion of it has been spent in buying tobacco and I do not flatter myself when I say that I believe I know the value of the crop, from the ground leaves to its very tips. I feel that I am fortunate indeed to secure the entire management of the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse, at Lancaster, for without doubt, I think it is one of the most complete and conveniently arranged of any that I have ever seen, and I have been through most every house of this character in Central Kentucky.

"The farmers and growers of tobacco in Garrard county should feel deeply proud of such an institution, which means so much in the future in a financial way, to all of them. All my life I have known that Garrard county produced the finest burley tobacco in the state and from what I have seen of the present crop in Garrard, I am convinced that her banner crop was raised this year.

"These Garrard County producers should stand by the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse, to a man, and show and prove to the world, that she does raise the best in the state. When that is proven, and it can be, with your support and co-operation, then you will see the value of your farms enhanced. We must and will go "Over the top" with the Garrard tobacco market this year.

"I will personally take charge about November 15th, and upon my arrival, I shall at once ride over the county and acquaint myself with everyone of you personally.

"The buyers that we have secured this year are none better in the world, I know most of them personally and the auctioneer, Mr. John Scott, is the best I ever heard on a sales floor. If he doesn't get every cent your tobacco is worth, there is not a man living that can.

Coming to you a stranger, that is to most of you, I trust that I may have your full co-operation and when the season closes in the spring, Garrard county will be known the state over, as the banner tobacco county of the grand old Commonwealth."

Yours for success,
Roy McCray."

AIR-TIGHT WALL OF IMPORTANCE

Careful Examination of Silos, Followed by Necessary Repairs, Is Big Help.

SMALL LEAK SPOILS SILAGE

Inside Coating to Seal Pores and Prevent Action of Juices on Walls Is of Much Benefit—Paraffin Is Promising.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

With the silo-filling season approaching, a careful examination of silos, followed by necessary repairs, will help to improve the keeping quality of the contents. According to studies of the United States department of agriculture, air-tight walls are the chief requirement; in fact, a leak no larger than a small nail hole may spoil several hundred pounds of silage. In case of wood-stave silos the hoops and braces should receive attention to insure close fitting.

Silos made of concrete, brick, or other material of porous or semiporous nature, are benefited by an inside coating of a preparation which seals the pores and also prevents the action of silage juices on the walls.

The coating most commonly used hitherto is coal tar thinned with gasoline and applied with a paint brush. A number of materials of like nature have been considered for this work, but the one showing the most promise is paraffin.

How to Apply Paraffin.

Paraffin may be applied either cold or hot to silo walls. With the cold method, the paraffin is dissolved in a volatile carrier like naphtha until a saturated solution is obtained. Four pounds of paraffin dissolved in one-half gallon of gasoline or naphtha will make one gallon of this solution. The solution is then applied much like paint to the surface of the concrete, which it penetrates according to dryness and porosity. One gallon has a covering capacity of about 200 square feet.

The naphtha soon evaporates, leaving the paraffin in the holes. When applying the paraffin by this method, special care must be taken that there is good ventilation in the silo and that there are no lights or fires nearby. Naphtha is very inflammable, and a serious explosion or fire may result from careless use.

Walls Must Be Warm.

Paraffin may also be applied in melted form. It requires six and one-half pounds of paraffin to make one gallon of the hot paraffin solution. The work should be done on a warm day and the concrete must also be sufficiently warmed by artificial heat so that the paraffin may be thoroughly rubbed in. One gallon will cover about 250 square feet of surface. When this method is followed, a blow torch should be used to warm the walls as the paraffin is being applied, and also to thin and spread the layer of paraffin. Two buckets of paraffin should be used, one to be heating while the other is being applied. The hot paraffin treatment is one of the most successful for waterproofing surfaces exposed to weather, but it requires some experience to obtain successful results.

Use of Hot Method.

Where the hot method is used, divide the number of square feet of silo wall to be coated, by 250 to find the required number of gallons. Multiply this result by six and a half to obtain the number of pounds of paraffin required. For example, to find the paraffin required to coat a silo 14 feet in diameter and 30 feet high:

Height (30 feet) x circumference (43.98 feet) equals 1319.4 square feet, the area.

Area (1319.4 square feet) divided by 250 equals 5.27, or number of gallons required.

Gallons required (5.27) x 6 1/2 equals 34.25, the number of pounds of paraffin required.

In both cases the cost may be estimated from the local price of paraffin and naphtha. It should be remembered, however, that these figures will vary with local conditions.

The Jewish Sabbath starts at sunset on Friday. Just as the Jews, like the ancient Greeks, began their day at sunset and not at sunrise, or immediately after midnight, as we do, who follow the ancient Romans.

Suffers Serious

Break Down.

"Two years ago I spent 3 months in hospital under stomach and bowel specialists for mucous colitis, auto intoxication, etc., which caused awful bloating and colic attacks. My friends gave me up. I returned home and on the advice of Mrs. Wright, a friend, tried Myer's Wonderful Remedy with wonderful results. 'Am now in best of health.' It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. FRITZI SCHEFF

In "Gloriana", at Lexington Opera House next Monday night

Fritzi Scheff, grand and comic opera prima donna, now starring in John Corbett's "Gloriana" to be seen at the Lexington Opera House, Monday evening, Nov. 10th, was born in Vienna, her maiden name being Fritzi Scheff Yager. Her mother, Hortense Scheff, was prima donna at the Imperial Opera House, Vienna, and her father, Dr. Yager, a physician at the Austrian capital. When she was five years old, Miss Scheff sang in a church choir, and when she was eight years old was spoken of as an infant prodigy.

Completing her vocal study at Dresden and Frankfurt, she made her debut in the latter city as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet." After singing prima donna roles in "Faust," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "La Boheme" and "Mignon" for two years in Frankfurt, she went to Munich and there Maurice Grau heard her. She signed a three years' contract with him, making her first American appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York as Marzelline in "Fidelio" December 28, 1900. That season she appeared as the Rhine Maiden in "Rheingold" and "Götterdämmerung," as the Valkyrie in "Walkure," as the unseen bird in "Siegfried," Zerlina in "Don Giovanni," and Mosetta in "La Boheme." The following season she was the Cherubino of "The Marriage Figaro," the Papageno of "The Magic Flute," the Nedda of "Pagliacci," and the Asa of "Madame Butterfly." During the interval between these two seasons Fritzi Scheff became the wife of a Baron.

When it became known that Maurice Grau was to give up the management of the Metropolitan Opera House Charles B. Dillingham made her an offer to star in comic opera under his management. She accepted and made her debut in that field at the Broadway Theatre in November 1903 as Bobette in the opera of that name by Harry H. Smith and Victor Herbert.

The next season she appeared in "The Rose Tree," a musical version of "The Story of the Rose Tree" by Stanislaus Stange and Ludwig Erlanger. Mr. Dillingham then revived for her a series of the old light operas, Becqua's "Girofle Girofle," and Von Suppe's "Hocaccio" and "Fatinitza" being among them. The seasons 1905 to 1908 she appeared in "Mlle. Modiste" by Henry Blussé and Victor Herbert.

Following "Mlle. Modiste," Miss Scheff, after a futile search for a suitable vehicle, temporarily deserted the comic opera stage for vaudeville, where she was a glorious success throughout America. However, she was continually on the lookout for a suitable vehicle to return to her chosen field, Musical Comedy. Last season, John Corbett offered her the prima donna role of "Gloriana" which she is now playing. Miss Scheff considers the role of "Gloriana" as the best and most suitable that she has ever had opportunity of portraying, not excepting even "Mlle. Modiste."

CENSUS

Interpretation Of The Word "Farm."

Washington, November 3rd.—What is a farm?

Seems a foolish question to ask, doesn't it? Almost anyone can tell off-hand just what a farm is and knows one when he sees it.

But do you happen to know the interpretation Uncle Sam places on the word "farm" for census purposes? No? Then read how his Bureau of the Census defines the word:

"A farm for census purposes is all the land which is directly farmed by one person conducting agricultural operations, either by his own labor or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employees."

In further explanation of this definition the Census Bureau points out that the term "agricultural operations" is used as a general term referring to the work of growing crops, producing other agricultural products and raising domestic animals, poultry or bees.

From this definition it will be seen that a farm may consist of a single tract of land or of a number of separate and distinct tracts. And these several tracts may be held under different tenures as, for instance, when one tract is owned by the farmer and another is rented by him. Thus if a man who owns 100 acres rents an additional ten acres from some one else and operates both the 100 acres and the ten acres, then his "farm" includes both tracts of land comprising 110 acres.

If the same taken when a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers or managers, each different tract of land operated by any such tenant, renter, cropper or manager is considered a separate and distinct farm by the Census Bureau. To give an example, if a man owning 120 acres of land rents 40 acres to a tenant and farms the remaining 80 acres himself, his farm is the 80 acres which he operates, not the 120 acres which he owns, while the 40 acre tract which he rents to a tenant comprises a separate farm to be reported in the name of the tenant.

Another question to be determined is how important does an agricultural enterprise have to be in order to secure recognition in the census as a farm? A small vegetable garden or a chicken yard accommodating a few busy hens will not be allowed to qualify as a "farm" in the census no matter with what pardonable pride and satisfaction the proprietor may view his agricultural enterprise.

But if the garden or chicken yard expands until it covers not less than three acres of ground, or until it requires for its care the continuous services of at least one person, or yields products annually to the value of $250 or more, it comes within the census definition of a farm and will be recognized as such and counted.

The agricultural schedule contains many questions regarding farm values, expenses and live stock as well as the acreage and quantity of crops raised in the year 1919. Census Bureau officials are urging farmers everywhere to prepare for the census enumerator by looking over their books and records so that accurate answers may be furnished to questions.

In this connection the Bureau of the Census emphasizes the fact that that information furnished to census takers is absolutely confidential, made so by Act of Congress, and that under no circumstances can any such information be used as a basis for taxation.

"Co-operation between farmers and the census officials next January is more necessary and vital than ever before," declares Director of the Census Sam L. Rogers. "The world war and the part that the farmer played in it and will continue to play in the rehabilitation of Europe serve to make the agricultural section of the Fourteenth Decennial Census the most important in the Nations history. Absolute accuracy and completeness in the census returns is the goal toward which every citizen should strive."

The Owl And

The Pussy-Cat.

The Owl and the Pussy-Cat went to sea
In a beautiful pea-green boat;
They took some honey, and plenty of mascy

Wrapped up in a five-pound note.
The Owl looked up to the moon above
And sang to a small guitar.

"O lovely Pussy! O Pussy, my love!
What a beautiful Pussy you are,—
You are,
What a beautiful Pussy you are!"

Pussy said to the Owl, "You elegant fowl!"

How wonderful sweet you sing!
Oh let us be married,—too long have we tarried,—

But what shall we do for a ring?"

They sail'd away for a year and a day
To the land where the fig-tree grows,

And there in a wood, a piggy-wig stood

With a ring in the end of his nose,
His nose,

With a ring in the end of his nose.

"Dear Pig, are you willing to sell for one shilling
Your ring?" Said the piggy, "I will."

So they took it away, and were married next day

By the turkey who lives on the hill.
They dined upon mince and slices of quince,

Which they ate with a runcible spoon,

And hand in hand on the edge of the sand

They danced by the light of the moon,—

The moon,

They danced by the light of the moon.

BAD HABITS OF HENS DIFFICULT TO CURE

Egg Eating and Feather Pulling Are Serious Vices.

Supply Plenty of Lime to Insure Firm Shell and Hava Nests Darkened—Encourage Fowls to Take Exercise.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Egg eating sometimes becomes a serious vice, fowls becoming very fond of eggs when they have learned to eat them, and it often spreads from fowl to fowl. It usually begins through accident by eggs being broken or frozen. Be careful to see that this does not happen. See that the nests are properly supplied with straw or other nesting material and have them darkened, so that if an egg is accidentally broken the fowls will not be likely to discover it. Supply plenty of lime in the form of oyster shells, bone or similar substances to insure a firm shell. As soon as it is discovered that a fowl has formed the habit the fowl should be removed in order to prevent the spread of the vice. Once formed it is difficult to eradicate, and the safest remedy is the death penalty.

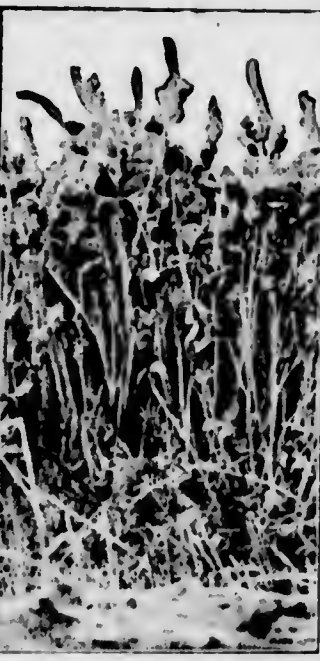

Fowls sometimes pluck feathers from themselves and from each other which is often caused by too close confinement, by the presence of insect pests, or by improper feeding. When some of the fowls of a flock have formed the habit slightly a whole range with a change of diet, including a plentiful supply of animal food, and freedom from insect pests will usually correct the evil. Above all see that the fowls have plenty of inducement to exercise. If the habit becomes well formed it is very troublesome and may necessitate the killing of some of the fowls in order to stop it.

SEEDING CLOVER IN AUTUMN

Unhulled Seed Gives Good Satisfaction, but is Hard to Handle—
Test for Germination.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Crimson clover may be seeded early in September, and from then on through October, depending on the section. In the South a great deal of unhulled crimson clover seed is used. This gives just as good satisfaction as the hulled seed, but it is harder to handle. In either case the farmer will be wise if he has a test made of the seed he intends to sow, so that he may know whether the sample contains

Crimson Clover, Showing the Most Advanced Stage of Ripening Which is Allowable for Use as Hay.

weed seeds and what percentage of the seed will grow. This matter should be attended to in plenty of time so that it will not be necessary to buy at the last moment and sow it without knowing whether or not the seed is good.

ADVANTAGES OF COVER CROPS

Hold Soil From Washing and Pre-vide Profitable Pasture for Hogs and Small Stock.

Cover crops hold the orchard soil from washing, prevent burning out humus, furnish good pasture for hogs, calves, poultry, and small stock, and furnish an excellent mulch and soil cover for the trees. If the orchard is pastured with small stock it should not be pastured too close. Enough growth should be made by the cover crop for winter to furnish a good mulch that will catch and hold snow and leaves that would blow away.

LITTLE THINGS IN FARMING

Much Depends Upon Interest Farmers
Take in Products That Can Be Made Profitable.

Often the "little things" may become the "great things" in farming. It all depends upon the interest farmers take in the various divisions of farming. Give poultry, bees, vegetable gardening, fruit and other branches a chance to prove the value of these divisions.

Birds Foretell Weather Change.

Swallows are merrily in their instinct. If they are flying high, then an umbrella is not an immediate necessity. But if, when they are in search of their food, they skim along at a low altitude, it is safe to predict a downfall at no great period. The long-distance flyers, such as gulls and rooks, are well worth attention. They are not only weather-wise, but wise in common sense. They never venture far from home when bad weather is brewing.

Baptized in a Balloon.

The child of a well-known member of the British parliament was recently christened in the crypt of the house of commons. This is, in a sense, a survival of the custom of bygone days, when christenings in crypts were by no means uncommon. In one recent case in California, for instance, the ceremony was performed in a diving bell at the bottom of the sea. In another case the proud parents of the new arrival persuaded a clergyman to baptize the child while up in a balloon.

Plaster Casts.

When plaster casts become soiled dip them into cold liquid starch.
When they are dry, brush the starch off and the dirt will come off with it, leaving the cast clean and white like new.

Natural Barometer.

One of the simplest of nature's barometers is a spider's web. When there is a prospect of wind or rain the spider shreds the filaments by which its web is sustained and leaves it in this state as long as the weather is variable. If it elongates its threads, it is a sign of fine, calm weather.

Wheat Berry Perfected.

Many of the present superior wheats produced in the United States were introduced into this country from Asia, Europe and South America and perfected to our country while undergoing the test. They have been bred and crossed until a berry has been secured which will adapt itself to the region requiring a wheat crop.

man race and the horse race—and if human race—it is safer.—Jacksonville

Nine Most Useful Words.

Incompleteness.

How universal is the sense of incompleteness in human experience!
Youth, maturity and even old age are ever reaching for the something else which they crave for the hour, which seems to be the essential need of the year while we occasionally meet natures who are bending every force of their working years to the end of attaining some great ambition, failing in which, life to them is but a fraction.—

Depository and Depositary.
The dictionary defines depository as a warehouse, a depository for goods; a clerk's office for records; a warehouse for storage, etc. A depositary is a person with whom anything is left for lodging in trust; as a trustee; a guardian; one to whom a thing is left for safe keeping. All national banks in the United States that are designated by the government for deposits are rated as depositories; and the government invariably uses the word (depository) for any money, bonds, etc., deposited.

Balancing Trade.
Where one country exports extensively to another and buys nothing from it the checks and drafts given in payment do not balance and it becomes necessary to ship gold or otherwise readjust accounts. This is expensive and makes it necessary to pay a premium in exchange. This premium is virtually an addition to prices paid. When it becomes too high purchases will be made in other markets. Thus will trade be lost unless it is balanced.

It All Depends.
Brace up! Some people are ground down on the millstone of life. Others get polished up. It just depends on the stuff you are made of.

Soldiers Walked on Diamonds.
Two detachments of British troops literally walked on diamonds for a week or so during a trek they made in Southwest Africa during the war days. The march was through a famous gem field and at every halt the Tommies sought for precious stones, many really valuable ones being found.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

It is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestine, while others would act only on the lower or large intestine, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Dr. Lewis' Medicine, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Dr. Lewis' Medicine is a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Dr. Lewis' Medicine from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Dr. Lewis' Medicine for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Dr. Lewis' Medicine (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.

Leonardo's Handwriting.

In one account of the life of Leonardo da Vinci we read a curious story about the great man's handwriting. It seems that it resembled characters in Hebrew or Arabic, for he used his left hand and wrote from right to left of the page, instead of from left to right, as we do today. One of the Vinci's letters could, therefore, only be read by holding it up before a mirror.

Domestic Cat Distinct Species.

The Egyptian cat seemed to have a good claim to the honor of being the ancestor of the domestic cat, both on account of its tapering tail and size, in which it bears a great similarity to the domestic cat. But peculiarities which were discovered in its dentition were sufficient to remove its claim. So it seems best to consider the domestic cat a distinct species.

"French Leave."

This expression arose in the early part of the eighteenth century, through certain guests, in the salons of France, not aware of the higher arts of courtesy, leaving without saying good-by to the host or hostess. The practice spread to society in this country. Therefore, if a man left without saying good-by to his host, it was said he took "French leave."

The Flowing Tide.

No one, however great his genius or high his position, is all-important to the world; his work will go on without him. There may be ripples and disturbances in the current for a time where he stirs out of sight, but the tide will soon be flowing on as before. This truth may be painful to personal vanity, but it is comforting to every generous soul that cares more for others than for self.

About Sciences and Religions.

The philosophical sciences deal with the general principles, laws or causes that furnish the rational explanation of anything; the rationale by which the facts of any region of knowledge are explained. The phrase is used more particularly in reference to the study of natural philosophy or physics. Empirical methods are those of observation. It is a science that grows out of experience. Such a scientist is versed, or skilled, in collecting facts and from those facts generalizations are made. There are hundreds of religions.

OLD ABNER.

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Old Abner was very tired. The morning hours passed slowly. With this new ache in his back, he was unable to weed the garden, and Betsy felt aggrieved. Betsy was his elder son's wife and when her husband had decided to make the farm their home, after his mother's death, old Abner had stayed on with them. But some way or other the real home vanished with Betsy's coming.

Abner couldn't understand it. Betsy's blights were as fluky as his wife's had been, and the big house was kept immaculate. Yet Abner preferred to sit outside now on the door stoop. His quavering whistle grew more plaintive as he whittled absently at a stick.

Violently Betsy threw open the front door.

"Land!" she exclaimed "look at those shavings. Pick 'em up, father."

Abner glanced diffidently in his young grandson's direction.

"Melba Dannie would do it for me," he ventured.

"Dannie will pick up his own shavings when he makes 'em," Betsy retorted, "and you can pick up yours."

As Abner bent humbly to his task, he recalled in time his own childhood, when he had spoken in what his mother considered a disrespectful manner to his grandfather. Abner remembered also the shameful humility of his punishment.

"Times has changed," he murmured.

Betsy presented a pan of green peas to the old man.

"You can put these as easy as whittling," she said. So grandfather Abner began on the peas, and as he awkwardly pushed the mentally contrasted attitude of his younger son in the city, and of the friends whom he brought out to the farm, with the actions of the elder son and his wife. There seemed little preference between the two.

John, happy and thoughtless, had succeeded remarkably in the profession for which his parents had sacrificially prepared him. Old Abner wheeled, remembering the good natured but irritating jokes of John's friends. "Times has changed," old Abner murmured—he was very tired. Then as he stared wearily down the long, stretching road, his years of patient submission were overwhelmed in a sudden rebellion. He would submit no longer to domination or ridicule—no one really cared about him—he would run away.

Again, memory brought a day from his forgotten boyhood, when in revolt he had fled down the same country road only to return at evening, repentant, to welcoming arms. There would be no welcome back now; still he must go.

Tremblingly, he placed the pan of pebbled peas on the step and hobbled swiftly toward the woods.

A small, gayly painted Noah's ark sort of a house, having the appearance of being recently set down in its place, attracted his attention. The girl on the porch told him about it when he stopped perplexed to ask if he was mistaken in thinking the house had not been there before.

The girl laughed delightedly as she explained.

"It's a portable house," she said; "father and I send it along wherever we wish to stop. Father hunts specimens, and I go to see that he's fed. Father would forget all about eating if I were not there to remind him. Won't you sit down?" she asked kindly, "and rest upon our veranda?"

Gratefully, old Abner accepted the invitation, the problem of his destination had been growing as he walked, and it was a big problem now.

Some way or other as he sat in the restful silence, with the girl's sympathetic face near by, he found himself answering her gentle questioning, with the faltering story of his life. But when his own eyes grew moist with tears the girl's blazed defiance instead. The pretty pink spots in her cheeks grew even plinker.

"The pity of it!" she exclaimed, and impulsively leaned over Abner's bowed figure.

"You are going to stay right here," she declared, "until you tire of us. Now, listen while I tell you. It will be no charity at all. Father is longing for some one to trudge with him through the woods—and in help him examine his specimens."

So it happened. Miss Paula Provost herself drove in her car to inform Mrs. Betsy of the whereabouts of her father-in-law and also of his resolution to remain where he was.

It was John from the city who came post haste to seek out his runaway father. He found him one summer afternoon seated upon the porch of a gay little house, between a contented old naturalist and his charming daughter. Abner could not be persuaded to leave his new peaceful abode, and so it became necessary for John to come again—and still again.

When the brilliant foliage of autumn decked the trees old Abner gazed one day tenderly into the young girl's eyes.

"Aren't you going to make my boy happy?" he asked, "anyone can see that his heart is yours."

"He needs punishment," Paula replied, "for his former thoughtlessness to you."

"I've always wished for a daughter-in-law just like you," the old man sighed wistfully. And as the girl laughed softly young John's suit was won.

Whither We Are Flying.

The point in space toward which the sun with its planets is voyaging at the rate of a million miles a day now lies directly overhead early in the evening. The exact location of this point has not been finally determined, but it lies somewhere in the neighborhood of the brilliant star Vega. Pleased at Her Appearance.

Jane was busy entertaining herself by looking at the photograph album, when she came across a picture of her mother when she was a tiny, bald-headed baby, and in all earnestness she said: "What a tummy! homely baby!"

Forgot Waiting Bride.

When John Kemble, the gifted tragedian, was married, he returned to the stage to play Hamlet on his wedding evening. Whether his mind became so absorbed in the character as to exclude all other matters of vital importance, we cannot say; but for the time he forgot his waiting bride and what had befallen him on that fateful day, and went off to his own room on the conclusion of the performance at the theater.

Spirit Meant for All.

That spirit which suffices quiet hours, which seems to come forth to such from every day knoll of cere grass, from every pine stump and half-indented stone on which the slutt March sun shines comes forth to the poor and hungry, and to such as are of simple taste—Emerson.

Flowers Foretell Rain.

The ordinary clover and all its varieties including the red clover, the horse clover, when rain is coming the leaves shut together like the shutters of an eye. For a day or two before rain comes their stems curl to an appreciable extent and soften so that the leaves are borne more uprightly than usual. This stem swelling when rain is expected is a feature of many flowering grasses.

UNCLE SAM PAYS $150,000,000 ON 4TH BOND ISSUE

THOSE WHO PATRIOTICALLY
BOUGHT A YEAR AGO NOW
GET REWARD.

BOND HOLDERS ARE GAINERS

November Will See Another Pay Day, and in December Interest Comes on the Victory Loan.

These pay days of Uncle Sam's are coming around with delightful frequency to those loyal Americans who in the days of the country's need dug deep in their pockets and bought Liberty Bonds.

Just a little more than a year ago America bought Liberty Bonds to the tune of $6,000,000,000. On Wednesday, October 15, Uncle Sam had the interest on that loan all ready. It amounts to the dignified sum of $148,517,248.75.

To those who received registered bonds the Treasury Department mailed checks for the interest money; those who took coupon bonds the coupons matured Wednesday, and they are as good as gold at any bank.

And next month there will be another of these pay days. In the middle of November the interest on the Second Liberty Loan will fall due and $78,102,249.20 will be disbursed. And in December two more such days will roll around. The First Liberty Loan will be the cause of $36,958,376.65 being distributed, and at the same time the Victory Liberty Loan will witness its first interest day and $106,875,000 will go back into the pockets of the people and the principal will remain undiminished.

These vast sums that are going out simply show Uncle Sam's is responsible financially, and that he never over looks a pay day. He is still in the market for money, and while the need is not so urgent as it once was, he can use your surplus.

He is offering the new Treasury Savings Certificates in $100 and $500 and the familiar War Savings Stamps. The interest coupons in the Liberty Bonds will be muchly well invested if put in these new "baby bonds."

BUEHLER LEADS THIS WEEK

LOUISIANA MAKES SHOWING

School Goes Over Top With 800 Per Cent in War Savings Stamp Sales for September.

When an individual or a group of individuals executes a pledge, and then fulfills it by more than 800 per cent, there can be no room for doubt as to the earnestness of the pledge.

Davis Henning, who is secretary of the Haney Pennek Memorial War Savings Society, at Louisiana, Mo., writes to headquarters that while the monthly pledges for his society total $13.85, the sales of War Savings and Thrift Stamps for September reached $108.75.

The society was organized since the opening of school and the secretary says the interest of his students is thoroughly aroused, and both the membership and the amount of sales will show a big increase for October.

KING HAS A BIG DAY

War Savings Organizer Sees 35 Societies Come into Fold in Single Day.

5 MERCER COUNTY FARMS 5

663 ACRES IN ALL AT AUCTION

"LAND HUNGER IS STILL UNSATISFIED."

But few farms can now be purchased either privately or at auction. This may be your last opportunity. Swinebroad is the only man in the business who has offered a series of sales in the same neighborhood, so as to give buyers an opportunity to attend and look over the different farms at the least expense.

I have refused to offer at auction almost as many farms as I have sold. Why? Because I know land values and will not offer at public sale any farm unless the owner is willing to absolutely "turn loose" or "turn loose" at a price which will justify the buyers to bid. This is one of the reasons Swinebroad always sells and the bidders fix the price. These farms are located in the very best belt in Mercer county.

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS ON FIVE-YEAR THRIFT PLAN

New Course of Study to Make Men and Women of Future More Prosperous.

Educational authorities in Kentucky have officially gone on record as favoring the Thrift campaign promulgated by the Treasury department of the United States, and the new course of study for the Blue Grass State, that is just from the press, and which has been adopted for the next five years has a full course of study on Thrift, and the teachers are instructed that this must be used as a regular instruction for their pupils.

State Superintendent of Instruction V. O. Gilbert has issued a special letter to the 12,000 Kentucky teachers under his charge, and has impressed on them the importance of giving special attention to this branch of education, which he says is of paramount importance.

He points out the fact that in the days gone by, before the World War opened the eyes of all nations to the absolute necessity of Thrift and Saving, that Waste was the rule, and that America was justly classed as the most wasteful of all the nations.

He urges that by beginning with the pupils of the lower grades, and continuing the study through to the senior years, probably more good will result to all the people than from the same amount of study given to any other branch of education.

Those who are now in the grade in the public schools in a decade will be the young men and women of affairs in the business and social world, and the theme of Thrift and Saving is calculated now will bear fruit for many years to come.

And again, in a more practical way, the teachers that are now being trained in Thrift Stamps will have grown into War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates, and these will have matured, and with the 4 per cent interest these "baby bonds" will have been cashed and invested in some other line of endeavor and will help to start the one in business who began saving in a modest way.

Kentucky is preparing to wage a relentless war on the Waste evil, and the school is to be used as one of the most effective weapons.

POSTMASTERS INTERESTED

Are Vying With Bankers in Getting Orders for Treasury Savings Certificates

Postmasters in Kentucky, Arkansas and Missouri, while not required to sell the new Treasury Savings Certificates in denominations of $1,000 are taking an active interest in the campaign and are sending numerous orders into headquarters at St. Louis.

G. S. Morris, postmaster at La Grange, Ky., this week sent an order for one thousand dollar Treasury Certificates for Mrs. M. Maggie Morris James M. Turner, postmaster at Cadiz, Ky., sent an order for a $100 certificate for F. M. Metcalley. J. W. Buckett, postmaster at Hickory, Ark., and H. J. Floyd, postmaster at Bentonville, Ark., sent orders for $100 certificates for some of their patrons.

Apples is responsible for the taking of many certificates in Lincoln, Ark. P. Stark, one of the Arkansas representatives of the War Loan organization, reports that the Bank of Lincoln gave an order for $500 in certificates and would more than double the order in a week.

A. L. Farnish, cashier of the Bank of Golden Pond, Ky., took orders for $100 certificates last week, and is canvassing his clients and says he will place orders for five times that amount before the end of October. He says he can think of no investment that offers better returns for his clients, and as far as security is concerned, these United States securities are in a class by themselves.

J. H. Yates, postmaster at Cove City, Ky., who last week sent in a stable order, reports this week with orders for $3,100. He orders $1,000 certificates for E. T. Mary W. and Ernest W. Willis, and a $100 certificate for Wilson Willis.

MOTHER GOOSE UP-TO-DATE.

Deedle, deedle, dumpling,
My son John,
In his school he never got on.
Thrift was taught, and with the dawn
Of wisdom he saved. Fine work, son John.

—F. M. C.

Light when it was not needed, the mother saved 10 per cent on $22 worth of clothes at a sale. George earned 25 cents each for mowing 15 lawns and mother saved 50 cents each by making five shirts instead of buying them ready-made. They saved an average of $1.50 a month by raising their own chickens. George saved 14 cents each by picking 400 boxes of berries.

"At the end of the year George who was now 12 years old, and his mother decided to invest their savings in Thrift and War Savings Stamps. How many did they buy?"

"George will be ready to go to college in five years. The War Savings Stamps will mature at that time. How much will George have at that time toward his first year in college?"

"If they continue the practice for five years, how much interest will their money have earned?"

"Knotty problem? Let me help"

"HELP" is right! A smooth, mellow smoke is just the thing, when you're up against a tough one. And Chesterfield is that smoke.

An expert and exclusive blend is responsible—finest, silkiest Turkish tobaccos from Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun, and the best varieties of Domestic leaf—put together by the manufacturer's private formula that brings out every last bit of flavor. No other process, no other blend, can successfully imitate Chesterfield's smoothness and full-bodied flavor.

No argument here! Chesterfields satisfy as no other cigarette has ever satisfied before.

Ligarettes and Tobacco Co.

Wait in Patience.

Don't get discouraged. There is hope for everyone and success ahead for those who are willing to patiently wait triumph. It is safer and surer for you if you'll follow the precedent of older and wiser persons than yourself. They probably know through long and humbling experience—Experience.

Proved Truth of Saying.

The saying, "United we stand, divided we fall," came from one of Aesop's fables called "The Four Oxen and the Lion." Four oxen were attacked by a lion. They were safe when they turned their tails together, and presented their horns. But when they separated the lion killed them singly.

Obtain Oil From Eggs.

The turtle living in the Orinoco lays eggs which are extraordinarily rich in oil. The Indians in British Guiana collect 25,000,000 yearly for tanning oil. The eggs of many sea birds are excellent eating. The best of the lot is said to be that of the "murre," a bird which is very common on the Labrador coast.

SEASONED

By LYDIA L. ROBERTS.

"Dear me," sighed Cora Brown as she cleared away the dishes. "Chester does not eat much lately. I wish he had the big appetite he used to have. I suppose he is worried over business. It's a dreadful mixture of high prices, strikes and uncertainties. It seems to me. Things are getting worse, I am afraid. Chester used to talk so cheerfully at the supper table. But now he just nods an answer to me and thinks and eats, only he doesn't eat enough. There! I forgot to tell him that Dudley broke the cellar window today."

The telephone rang and Cora answered. "This is Mary," said her cousin. "Will you come over this evening for a little while? Fred has gone out and I'm lonesome. I want to show you my new dress, too."

"Yes, I'll run over before I wash my dishes," replied Cora. "Chester brought work home so he won't miss me, and the children are in bed. I'll be right over."

It was only a short walk to her cousin's home, and soon the two women were discussing new styles and comparing prices. "I must go now," said Cora after an hour had passed. "There are still my dishes to be washed and Chester gets lonesome if I'm out long."

"Let's have a cup of tea and some of my fresh cake," urged Mary. "It is a new recipe and you might like it."

"I didn't eat much supper," sighed Mary. "I had a good supper ready and Fred ate a lot, but he told me of an accident he saw on the way home. It seems impossible to save much money on Fred's salary, and I get so worried when I think of the expenses coming. Somehow the supper didn't taste as good as I thought it was going to."

"I should say so," said Cora indignantly. "The idea of Fred telling you all those dreadful things at supper-time. That's a nice kind of a way to season your meal."

"Oh, he didn't mean any harm," eagerly said Mary. "He knows I am interested in anything he sees. I always tell him all the little household happenings, too, either troubles or joys, and it doesn't affect his appetite."

"Yes, I tell Chester everything that has happened through the day," agreed Cora. "It keeps a man in touch with the home, and I think they should know all we have to put up with, but his appetite—oh!" she stopped suddenly and sat thinking.

"Well, let us have our tea now," said Mary.

The next night when Chester Brown came home Cora hurried to the door to meet him.

"Hello, honey, how's the day?" he asked in his usual cheery way.

"I've had a fine day," answered Cora brightly, as they sat down to the good-smelling meal. "The work has gone smoothly. I got a nice long letter from Dudley that I'll read you presently and baby cut his last tooth."

"Good work!" smiled Mr. Brown.

"How much is better now?" he asked a few minutes later.

"It is five cents a pound cheaper this week, and it is good butter, too," replied Cora. "Eggs are lower, also, and I'm so glad we all like both those things, because they are so healthful for us," she continued cheerily. "I used to pity Aunt Nora when she was trying every way to coax her thin little boy to eat nourishing things."

"Well, we certainly don't have to coax our boys to eat," ruefully smiled Chester.

"No, bless 'em," laughed Cora, "and the grocer to pay keeps the doctor away. I asked Dudley today if he ever, ever, got full, and he said: 'Oh, yes, mamma, I'm full twice a year, any way, on Thanksgiving and Christmas.'"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Chester Brown. "He is a witty little rascal."

"Yes," said Cora, watching him as she talked and much pleased to see the way the vegetables were disappearing. "I took Arnold over to Mrs. Denton's today."

"Have the boys been good today?" asked Chester as Cora brought in the dessert.

"Yes, indeed," she answered quickly and remorsefully watched his face brighten. "Arnold wiped the dishes and Dudley swept the piazza for me. I thought I would teach them to help, now they are old enough. They like the responsibility and I praised them and told them I would tell you all about it."

"Why, that's fine," said Chester, looking proud and pleased. "There need be no spankings tonight, then."

"Oh, no, they are too big for that. I find they listen to my explanations and really seem to understand why they must not do things now."

"Thank goodness," sighed Chester. "They got into so much trouble last week I felt as if I had ceased to be their father and was simply the chief speaker of the family."

"I will read you this letter now," said Cora. "It is very interesting because it tells about the ranch life."

"Children are great laugh-makers," chuckled Mr. Brown.

"You look mighty nice tonight, with," he continued, "I haven't eaten so much supper for a long time, seems to me. Tasted extra good tonight; did you season it any different, dear?"

"Yes, dear," smiled Cora, as he threw a kiss for thanks. "It is my special new brand. I seasoned it with love mixed with understanding and speed with cheerfulness. I've decided to use that kind right along."

The lovely bride, of whom none are fairer or more winsome, Miss Florence Johnson, and the groom, Mr. Bradley Bourne. The altar was banked with palms, ferns, autumn leaves, ivy and combined with clusters of pink, heliotrope, white and yellow chrysanthemums. Marking the pews for the families and close friends were arches, which were laden with green foliage, combined with chrysanthemums and tied with rainbow illusion bows. The half hour of music furnished by Miss Amy Dawes, violinist, and Mr. Iris Chandler, of Corydon, soloist, preceded the ceremony filled the devotional edifice with selections of praise and joy. A fashionable gathering filled the church, for the young people on whom all eyes were centered are favorites with all and the general good wishes of the assembly were showered upon Mr. Bourne and his pretty bride, who is a fascinating brunette type. The ushers, groomsman entered the church first, followed by the bevy of beautiful young girls, whose perfect gowning fitted in with the artistic decorations. The bride's robe was a lustrous white satin with drapery of white georgette and the waist garniture of opal beads with the conventional veil of tulle and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Dunn, had a beautiful costume of orchid pussy willow taffeta and tulle. This frenchy costume was adorned with small wreaths of french flowers in the different pastel shades. Miss Brown wore a lovely little pink tulle frock with many little floeances and trimmings of iridescent beads.

Miss Wright was clad in a beautiful dress of seafoam green silk net made over green taffeta with a bodice of glistening sequins.

The bridesmaids wore beautiful hula hats, their well coiffed hair showing through the crownless chapeaux, while their great flower showers of chrysanthemums, their faint coloring a perfect blend for their costumes.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bourne and one of the most substantial farmers of this county.

The bride, only daughter of Mrs. Lania Johnson, is a popular and lovable young girl, whose winsomeness and worth have endeared her to the entire community.

Another "Origin of Dixie." Before the Civil war the old Citizens' Bank of New Orleans, having the power to issue paper money, provided quantities of bills, most of ten-dollar denomination, having the French word "Dix" on their backs. This money became popular, according to this theory, Louisiana was referred to as the land of the "Dixies." Eventually the term was broadened to include all of the southern states.

Another New Counterfeit. New Field of Activity Being Worked By Bold Counterfeiters Who Face Term in Federal Prison on For Passing Bogus Stamps.

Counterfeiters have found a new field of activity, according to reports from the Treasury Department at Washington. In certain parts of the country counterfeiters have been discovered in this year's issue of War Savings Stamps. Departments of the Government are trying to apprehend the persons responsible for the distribution of the fake reproductions of the little securities. Banks and Stamp Agents and Postmasters are requested to communicate at once with the Chief of the United States Secret Service at Washington when such are presented. The counterfeiters are being attached to genuine certificates. They are a photographic reproduction in good color blue ink, but the fine lines behind the portrait in the genuine appear in solid color in the counterfeit. The perforations of the genuine stamps appear photographed on those which are not genuine. "Counterfeiters seem to know a good thing when they see it," said a Treasury official, "or they would not take a chance of a term in the Federal penitentiary by putting out reproductions of War Savings Stamps."

Consider Probable End.
Better it is, toward the right conduct of life, to consider what will be the end of a thing, than what is the beginning of it; for what promises fair at first may prove ill, and what seems at first a disadvantage may prove very advantageous.—Wells.

His Mind in the Clouds.
Rev. George Harvest was to have been married to the daughter of Bishop Compton, of London, but on the morning fixed for the ceremony forgot all about it and went off fishing. Much indignation was felt by the bride and her friends, and the engagement was broken off. But the reverend gentleman's second engagement was equally unsuccessful. Once more he forgot to come up to the church and lost his expectant bride in consequence.

JOHN McCORMACK,

Worlds Greatest Singer
To Appear In Louisville in November.

John McCormack, probably the most popular singer in the world, will appear in Louisville on November 21. This will be without question the greatest musical attraction ever announced for Louisville, and McCormack will draw people from all over the state of Kentucky. The managers of the concert, Bradford Mills and Merle Armitage, state that they will take very special care of out of town mail orders, and that they will see that all people coming from a distance have good seats.

McCormack comes as the first concert of a series of three, to be known as the Civic Music Series. It is the policy of the new Series to give Louisville and Kentucky the greatest music for the most people at the lowest possible cost. The other two attractions are the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Ossip Gabrilowitch, Conductor and soloist, and Amelita Galli Curci. McCormack comes on November 21, the Detroit Orchestra on March 3, and the Galli Curci concert will be on April 6th. Season tickets for the three will sell at $2.80, $4.60 and $6.80, including tax. Single admissions for McCormack will be $1.10, $2.20 and $3.30, including tax. Mail orders should be sent to Civic Music Series, care Stewart Dry Goods Co., Louisville, and they will have prompt attention.

To Clean Diamonds.

Diamond dust is a fine dust produced from cutting diamonds. It is an analysis used by jewelers, chiefly for cleaning diamonds. It may be prepared in any jewelry store, together with instructions for its use. Another quite satisfactory way to clean diamonds is to make a lather of soap, add a little ammonia and apply this cleansing preparation to the stones with a tooth brush.

When Legislators "Pair."

When a legislator wishes to be absent at the time when an important vote is to be taken, he finds some member who intends to vote on the other side of the question and arranges a "pair" with him. That is, the second legislator agrees to refrain from voting, as an accommodation to the first. The net result when neither vote is cast is the same as if both had voted on opposite sides. Both legislators can then be absent if they wish without loss or gain to either side.
